Bear the Astronot and Turntable Kachina Revive Hip-Hop's Golden Era with "93 Beats Per Minute" Bear the Astronot and Turntable Kachina, two powerhouse artists under the 1st Drop Music umbrella, have dropped a new track that's as nostalgic as it is forward-thinking. Titled "93 Beats Per Minute," the song is a tribute to the conscious, boom-bap Hip-Hop that inspired their careers while adding a modern twist that keeps it fresh for 2024. A Return to the Roots of Hip-

Hop The duo has been collaborating on a full project with a clear mission: to honor the roots of Hip-Hop while incorporating their unique, contemporary sound. “93 Beats Per Minute” delivers on this promise, harking back to the golden age of Hip-Hop with its lyrical depth and sample-heavy production. Bear the Astronot’s sharp lyricism and rapid-fire delivery bring the energy of classic conscious rap, showcasing his passion and precision as an MC. For fans of the golden age, the track’s nostalgic vibe is undeniable. It calls back to a time when Hip-Hop was defined by its thoughtful lyrics, layered samples, and unshakable groove—yet it feels distinctly modern, thanks to Turntable Kachina’s innovative touch. Turntable Kachina’s Atmospheric Drop Turntable Kachina Turntable Kachina’s contributions take the track to another level. Known for his synth-heavy, atmospheric sound, he introduces a modern, cinematic drop that infuses the track with a futuristic edge. This unique blend of old and new allows “93 Beats Per Minute” to stand out in today’s music landscape, bridging the gap between the genre’s roots and its future. The production is a testament to Turntable Kachina’s skill, seamlessly integrating nostalgic elements with cutting-edge sound design. It’s a reminder of how Hip-Hop continues to evolve while staying grounded in its foundational principles. A Synergy of Two Talents The collaboration between Bear the Astronot and Turntable Kachina is a match made in Hip-Hop heaven. Both artists bring their A-game to… Official press information, artwork, credits, and listening destinations are maintained by 1st Drop Music.
